On-site & online

About the call

MaTeCC brings together cybersecurity and personal data protection stakeholders in Rabat around one question: how to preserve trust when systems, data and decisions become automated. For its 4th edition, co-organized by High-Tech School and CyAN (Cybersecurity Advisors Network), MaTeCC invites researchers from Morocco, Africa and beyond to submit scientific papers on the future of digital trust in the age of AI. Authors who cannot travel may present online (hybrid format).

Topics of interest

- 1 Trustworthy AI & Governance
Governance, ethical and compliance frameworks for transparent, responsible and trustworthy AI; AI risk management and accountability.
- 2 AI & Cybersecurity
AI for cyber defense; AI red teaming, prompt injection and jailbreaks; securing agentic AI systems and software supply chains.
- 3 Next-Generation Cyber Threats
AI-enhanced cyberattacks, deepfakes and synthetic identities, social engineering and misinformation campaigns.
- 4 Data, Regulation & Digital Trust
Personal data protection and privacy, digital sovereignty, regulatory compliance, post-quantum crypto-agility and tomorrow's cybersecurity talent.
- 5 Environment
Smart technologies, IoT and AI for environmental monitoring, climate resilience and sustainable development.
- 6 Healthcare
AI and digital health: security, privacy and trust in medical data and connected healthcare systems.
